Charles Francis Adams Writes a Letter

NEW YORK Sept 16—Charles Francis Adams has written the following to a gentleman in Brooklyn who sent a copies of the Times of the city con who sent an article in which it said "We have hopes taining an article in which it said "We have hopes that a rousing public spirit will some way make itself potent in the nomination of president next year and that Mr Adams may be called from his retirement at Quincy to the presidency its ancient dignity and legislative influence

QUINCY Sept 16 1875

My Dear Sir I cannot be but deeply moved by the voluntary expression of esteem which I occasionally find in newspapers in reference to myself but I must they may not have the effect of turning my head, or making me think of myself better than I am, or making me blind to the suggestion made in regard to it. With regard to the suggestion made in the articles which you call my attention to, I am sure it would be very agreeable to me to undertake the work, but I have already on my hands quite as much as I can dare hope to accomplish during my remaining term of life approaching so near the three score term of life approaching so near the three score and ten prescribed as the limit of usefulness. If I do, I shall have to make or run great risk of leaving matters in confusion. It is for this reason that I am driven, perhaps, too indifferent to the wishes which have been, perhaps, too indifferent to the wishes of many who have desired to have me called again into public life. I see nothing there just now which promises happy results within a short time. Meanwhile, I am steadily releasing myself from responsibility and, if not writing history at least, putting out of reach of accident the valuable materials for writing it, which have been placed in my hands, or which I have myself furnished in my own career. I doubt whether I could be made more useful to the world in any other way. I my excuse for this egotism and believe me, Very truly yours,

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS

Democratic Convention of New York.

SYRACUSE, N.Y. Sept. 16.—The Democratic state convention met at Wieting Hall Every seat was occupied. Allen Beach, chairman of the state central committee, called the convention to order without the usual preliminary remarks, and nominated Archbishop McCloskey, of New York, Lawrence temporary chairman, which was agreed to unanimously. McCloskey was received with applause. In his address he said the living question now before the people was the financial question. The evils of depreciated currency under which the country now suffers naturally resulted from the departure from sound principles of the constitution prohibiting states, and by implication the general government from making anything but gold and silver a legal tender The statement was received with moderate applause, which was soon followed by great applause at the mention of Governor Tilden's name. The usual committees were appointed and the convention took a recess till 4 P M

Upon reassembling the convention reassembled at 2 P M, and Judge H Stuteon was chosen permanent chairman with vice presidents from each district.

The following resolution was adopted, unanimously

Resolved, That hereafter the state committee shall in all cases of contested seats admit as voting members those only who present credentials from persons organized as regular by the last preceding state convention and such members shall participate in all proceedings of the convention except as to contested seats until the convention shall decide upon the case.

The president appointed the following additional members, whose names had been suggested by delegations from the city of New York, of the committee on resolutions Manton Marble Edwin B Morgan, Wm C Whitney Hilton H Harrison, Chris topher Fine, Frederick Smith, John Hayes.

At 9 minutes before 9, the committee adjourned till 10 tomorrow.

At a meeting of the committee on contested seats Murray addressed the committee for the eleventh district Kelly responded to Morrissey's speech, which was also one. The vote on the district stood 10 for the admission of Morrissey's delegation, 12 against The vote on the other New York delegates stood 18 to 5 against admitting the contestants.

The chief interest of the day has been contested seat cases. Nothing new has transpired concerning the ticket. The candidates are apparently fairly enough to secure nominations and John Bigelow, secretary of state Chas S. Fairchild for senator and D. H. Farmenter, attorney general. The platform will favor return to specie pay ments, indorsement of the governor on behalf of canal reform honesty in the administration of governmental affairs opposition to presidential third term, and reiteration of former declarations of the democratic state convention.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE
WASHINGTON D C Sept 9

To Gov Ames, Jackson Miss This hour I have had a dispatch from the President. I can best convey to you his ideas by extracts from his dispatch. The whole public are tired out with these annual outbreaks in the south and the great majority are ready now to condemn any interference on the part of Government. I heartily wish that peace and good order may be restored without issuing the proclamation but if they are not the proclamation must be issued But if it is I shall in that event the commander of the forces to have no childish play If there is a necessity for military interference there is justice in such interference as to deter evil doers I would suggest the sending of a dispatch or letter by private messenger to Gov Ames urging him to strengthen his own position by exhausting his own resources in restoring order before he receives government aid he might accept the assistance offered by citizens of Jackson and elsewhere Gov Ames and his advisors can be made perfectly secure as many of the troops now in Mississippi as he deems necessary may be sent to Jackson If he is so misled as to betray by those who offer assistance he will be in a position to defeat their ends and punish them You see by this the mind of the president with which I and every member of the cabinet who have been consulted are in full accord You see the difficulties—you see the responsibilities which you assume We can't understand why you do not strengthen yourself in the way the president suggests nor do we see why you do not call the legislature together and obtain from them whatever powers and money and arms you need I suggest that you take all lawful means and all needed measures to preserve peace by the forces in your own state and let the country see that the inhabitants of Mississippi are favorable to good order and who are largely Republican have the courage and the manhood to fight for their state's rights and destroy the bloody ruffians who murder innocent and unoffending freedmen Everything is in readiness be careful to bring yourself strictly within the constitution and the laws and if there is such resistance to your state authorities as you cannot by all means at your command suppress the President will swiftly aid you in crushing the lawless traitors to human rights Telegraph me on receipt of this and state explicitly what you need

WHITTINGTON

Lived in poverty with a wife and two children near the Red river in Pickens county, Chickasaw Nation, and was sentenced for a murder committed in that vicinity on Sunday, Feb 7th On the day in question Whittington and John J Turner a neighbor started in company across the river On the evening of the same day while returning, Whittington knocked his companion off his horse with a club rendering him senseless and then deliberate cut his throat from ear to ear The object was of course robbery Whittington knowing that Turner had $180 on his person which he immediately possessed himself of Turner had a son not out of his teens who a short time prior to the murder rode out to meet his father and while crossing a small prairie noticed a man and two horses near the edge of a strip of woods ahead of him The man's peculiar actions aroused suspicion as he seemed to be busily engaged with some undistinguishable object on the ground As the distance lessened between the boy and the object of his attention he recognized Whittington who at once mounted his horse and rode off at full speed The lad was horrified on beholding the disfigured corpse of his father and immediately started to wreak a terrible vengeance on the cut throat He came up with Whittington at the river bank and compelled him to surrender at the mouth of a derringer Whittington afterwards escaped but was again captured and has been confined in the Fort Smith jail for the past six months A knife covered with blood and hair belonging to Whittington was found near Turner's body and Turner's money which was identified was found on Whittington's person after his capture The case was not the shadow of doubt as to his guilt

EDMUND CAMPBELL

A full blooded negro was born near Scullyville Choctaw Nation twenty miles from Fort Smith twenty years ago and the crime for which he was tried and convicted was an unusually heinous one On February 13th he accompanied by his thirteen year old brother Sam and Frank Butler a half brother he clandestinely visited the house of Lawson Ross and killed him as well as a young colored girl residing with him Edmund and the half brother Butler were both arrested and Campbell admitted having had a hand in the crime but asserted that Butler did the actual killing His only defense was that several years previously his father and mother had been injured by the murdered man and the deed was committed to satisfy an overpowering longing for revenge Butler was also convicted and would have ended his existence by means of a hempen tie were it not for the fact that he attempted to escape and was killed by the officers of the law

JAMES MOORE

As he calmly stood facing Judge Parker was a perfect picture of the Western desperado Over six feet in hight massive shouldered and built from the ground up he was a splendid specimen of physical manhood From his boyhood up he had led the wild life of a cattle herder, and of necessity had engaged in many a bloody scrimmage with the red skins His associates were of the worst class and though he was but twenty eight years of age, numerous bloody deeds had been placed to his credit The crime for which Moore suffered the extreme penalty of the law was committed in the Indian Territory under the following circumstances About a year ago he brought some stock to Washington county Arkansas and after disposing of it he and a confederate named Hunton stole some horses from a farmer named Fox who was a cripple Indignant citizens on learning of the outrage at once started in pursuit of the thieves and hunted them for 200 miles into the Indian Territory As the chase became hot the vigilantes were joined by Capt Erwin a former United States deputy marshal and a companion named Spivey The horse thieves were brought to bay on a little creek near Red river and they concluded to turn on their pursuers and show fight At the first fire Spivey was killed by Hunton and Erwin badly wounded by Moore Extra exertions were then made to capture the thieves, and they resulted in success Hunton, however, again succeeded in escaping was again pursued into the Indian Territory and killed Moore's wife and two children subsequent to his incarceration, moved to the vicinity of Fort Smith where they now reside

SMOKER MAN KILLER

Was a full blooded Cherokee Wm Short, a popular young white man living in the Flint district, was his victim The scene of the tragedy is about forty miles north of this place Exactly one year ago last Wednesday Short who was a mere boy being aged only 19, started out on a hunting expedition Smoker man met him and asked to be loaned the gun for a few moments The request was complied with, when the red demon, true to the bloodthirsty instincts of his race stepped back a few paces pointed the fire-arm at his unsuspecting friend and immediately, pulled the trigger Short's death was instantaneous The deed was witnessed by two men who chanced to be in the vicinity and who identified the Indian murderer The proof was positive, not only on this account but because the fiend openly bragged of his crime He was arrested at once by the United States authorities, and speedily convicted The prisoner's record was an unusually bad one Though quite young he has a wife and child A few weeks prior to the crime for which he was convicted he killed one of his own tribe, and was acquitted by the tribal laws of course no one ever having been punished for murder in the territory

FOOY AND HIS TRAGEDY CRIME

The murder for which Fooy was convicted was one of the most extraordinary on record and may well be classed among curiosities of crime In the winter of 1871-72 John Emmett Naff a young school teacher left Leavenworth Kansas for the Indian Territory Being an industrious young man of fine address and anxious to work the Cherokee trustees placed him in charge of a school near Tahlequah where he remained from February to July 1872. Desiring to return North Naff resigned his position and on the 10th of July in the same year after receiving $200 due him by the same school trustees he started on foot towards the salt works on the Illinois river The next night he slept at the house of Capt O K Stevenson, deputy United States marshal A member of this household was the murderer's sister In the morning when about to take his departure Mr Naff tendered to the lady of the house a $5 bill from which fifty cents was to be deducted for his lodging There being no change in the house Naff agreed to leave the amount due fifty cents in the store at the salt works, and he and the prisoner started for that place Naff carrying a small traveling satchel in his hand He was never again seen and the supposition was of course that he had continued on his journey north Three residents in the vicinity know better than this About the 1st of August Fooy called upon a brother in law named Beattie and confided to him the terrible secret that he had murdered the school teacher Beattie did not betray the trust A few weeks afterward Fooy again unbosomed himself and this time a woman was his confidant For the third time being she also kept the secret and but for an accident the crime would doubtless never have been revealed An Indian boy discovered the skeleton on a high bluff on the shore of the Illinois river and some papers, which proved his identity Fooy was arrested Those to whom he had confided appeared against him and he was convicted

DEATH ON THE SCAFFOLD

The six men Moore Evans Whittington Fooy Campbell and Smoker Mankiller were placed upon the scaffold Fort Smith at half past 9 o'clock this morning There was a strong guard placed about the scaffold commanded by Captain Witten formerly of St Louis The death warrants were read by Marshal Pierce and Blackburn and it was interpreted to Smoker Mankiller by Captain Long official interpreter to the district court The ministers then performed their functions and a hymn was sung Fathers Smith ministered to Evans and Moore The services were brief The executions were well managed The men died comparatively easy They were as brave men as ever mounted a scaffold With death just before them they never flinched—not a nerve trembled They went bravely to death Just as the black cap was dropped over the face of Evans he waved a handkerchief toward the crowd and his last words in a clear ringing voice Fooy smiled pleasantly just before he was shut out from seeing the sight of heaven forever

A picture of the fashionable watering places on Virginia Hot Springs is the female barbers One of them has an establishment at the White Sulphur Springs and her skill with a razor is only excelled by the fascinations of her person and her manners The other day as a Baltimore lady was passing the shop she met her husband who is perfectly beardless coming out, and with such a pleasant expression on his face that her indignation was aroused What were you doing in there sir? he savagely inquired Taking a shave my dear! Why you bare faced old prevaricator you couldn't raise half a dozen hairs on that brassy cheek of yours if your life depended on it That's very true my dear returned the incorrigible man, but I like to have her feel for em

FRIDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 17, 1875.

THE TRUE POLICY OF QUIETING THE SOUTH.

The trouble in Mississippi having now subsided, the letter of the Attorney-General to Governor Ames, which we publish this morning, among our Eastern dispatches may be considered a little out of date. It is not out of date, however. It is good for the whole South and for the future, as well as for the present. The policy it declares is just what has been needed for a long time to give peace and rest to that distracted region. There are two points made by the President—for the Attorney-General's letter is simply a transcript of the President's dispatch to him—and they are all there is in the true Southern policy so far as the National government is or ought to be connected with it. The first point is that the people of the United States are tired of having the Southern States run by the Federal government, and will not approve of any further interference in the local affairs in the States unless such interference is plainly necessary to protect citizens of the United States in the enjoyment of their rights as such. It is therefore the determination of the administration not to yield to the demands for help unless the case prescribed by the Constitution is clearly made out. The President is rather lave in arriving at this wholesome conclusion, and it is not improbable he would not have reached this point at all had he not changed his advisers. But now that he has reached it, the soundness of his position should be recognized, and in his indicated purpose of carrying out the new and true policy he should be strengthened and encouraged by the press, as he surely will be sustained by a well defined public sentiment.

The second point is that if compelled by the disorderly spirit of Southern desperados to interpose the power of the National Government, he will make no child's play of it, but will take hold of the turbulent communities with a hand so strong that they will have reason to be sorry for making any action on the part of the National Government necessary. That purpose is deserving of all support. If the people of the South, black and white, have not sufficient regard for the rights of each other and for the laws and institutions of the country, to refrain from organized violence, they should be made to understand that there is a power that can and will take care of their cases when the state authorities are unable to do so. The leaders of these Ku Klux mobs and negro riots should be dealt with in such a manner as would inspire them and heir followers with a wholesome terror of the law. The whole power of the government should be employed, if nothing short of that will do, to bring them to justice, and then justice should be just as little diluted with mercy as the instincts of a Christian people would allow. Life and property should be rendered secure in every part of this Union, if, in order to make it so, hanging by wholesale had to be resorted to. There is not the slightest danger of thinning out that class of population too much.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Our St. Paul exchanges gave, a short time since, a long account of the terrible accident at Brainard, on the Northern Pacific Railroad, by which five persons were killed outright and as many more wounded. A bridge across the Mississippi broke down, and the coroner's jury found "that the train was passing at the usual speed of four miles an hour; that the west span broke first, caused by its being constructed of unsuitable and unsound timber; that it broke by the actual weight of the train; and that the whole bridge was considered unsafe by persons not connected with the railway, and several who were men that were competent to judge of its condition." And they further found that "several officials of the Northern Pacific Railway whose duty it was to make an examination of the bridge, as to its safety, were either incompetent to judge of its condition, or were guilty of gross neglect in not making the necessary repairs."

This bridge, as we learn further, was built by the Northwestern Construction Company, of which Bill King, of Pacific Mail fame, Canda, Payson, and other worthies, were members. Canda built another bridge across the Mississippi at Winona, we believe, which broke down a few years ago. It appears, the Northern Pacific Board of Directors, at the East, at a private letting, awarded to the Northwestern Construction Company (an organization specially incorporated for the purpose of plundering the Northern Pacific Railroad Company) a contract to build the road from a point near Duluth to the crossing of the Red River of the North—about 225 miles. The price given was so enormous that Bill King & Co., by sub-letting the work, and without the investment of a farthing, were enabled to reap the handsome profit of a million and a half of dollars. Although the work was given out in the lump, or at so much per mile, some idea of the richness of their plum may be formed by the statement that it was equivalent to 70 cents a yard for earth excavation—or three times more than the company could have had it built for at a fair public letting. It was in this manner that the old corporation was plundered, until it was financially a bankrupt and its name a reproach.

A new corporation is now about to be organized, the owners of which will be the former bondholders, now preferred stockholders. If they expect to regain public confidence, we are sure we speak for the stockholders on this coast when we say: Avoid returning any of the old ring; avoid returning any man who, in any official capacity, either in the Northern Pacific or any other corporation, has betrayed the interests confided to him. An opportunity is now offered to turn over a new leaf, and

STILL ALIVE.

Just as all the Republican conventions have got through resolving that Grant's Third Term letter was a definitive settlement of the question and disavowal of any desire to be a candidate for re-election, some singular utterances are appearing in various papers of influence. The New York Times, for instance, editorially remarks that events might come to pass which would make the renomination of Grant the best thing that could be done. What the hypothetical events might be is not stated, nor, indeed, does the Times express an opinion that such are likely to occur. But the suggestion of their possibility just now seems not to be called for by anything peculiar in the political situation. Simultaneously with the remark of the Times appears an article in the Chicago Staats Zeitung, a leading German paper of the Northwest, in which it is said that Grant and the Third Term would be preferable to any inflationist. As an abstract proposition this may not be so objectionable, though we apprehend the people would, if it come to that, take the inflationist rather than the third term. But why put the question in that way? Are there no hard-money men in the United States capable of filling the office of President except General Grant? We trust there are. If not, it is of little use for the hard-money people to attempt to hold the reins of government.

And then comes the Sacramento Record-Union, and closes some comments on the article in the Zeitung with this paragraph:

> Whether the rag money issue is to be a presidential issue the Ohio campaign will decide, but if the Democrats should carry that State, and the party not split hopelessly during the winter, the situation may be such that the Northwest will insist on the renomination of Grant, even in the teeth of the cry of Cæsarism.

Really it looks as if the third term reptile were not dead yet, but merely scotched. But it will be killed, if not before then, at the polls in 1876. That may as well be set down for a fixed fact.

DR. STEBBENS ON THE LATE W. C. RALSTON.

The dispatch sent up here from San Francisco, some time since, saying that Rev. Dr. Stebbens, of that city, had pronounced a eulogy upon Mr. Ralston from his pulpit, turns out to have been a misstatement. The sermon referred to has been published, and instead of a eulogy it was a very candid and just review of the life and career of the great operator, paying a tribute, of which all fair-minded persons will acknowledge the justness, to the mental grasp and enterprising spirit of Mr. Ralston, but at the same time criticising his life and example, as filled up with indefensible passages, and of immoral tendencies. Neither denying his merits nor concealing his faults, the eloquent divine performed a real service to the community, not only in presenting a truthful analysis of one of the most remarkable characters that has appeared on the stage of action on the Pacific coast, but by setting an example of honest, manly independence in the pulpit.

Were it not that the Democratic party has shown heretofore a power surpassing all belief in the matter of facing about to suit the circumstances, we should be disposed to propound to those who take upon themselves the responsibility of speaking for the organization some interrogatories touching the position in which it is likely to find itself a year hence, when it comes to make a national campaign. For example, we might mention the fact that in Ohio and Pennsylvania the party has declared for rag-money and inflation, while in California and Oregon it has planted itself as firmly on the policy of specie resumption; and then we might ask how the Pennsylvania and Ohio Democrats are to fall into line and support the national candidates of the party if a hard-money platform be adopted, and if a rag-money platform, then how are the California and Oregon Democrats to fall in? But the party has repeatedly demonstrated within the last few years that the allegiance of its rank and file does not depend upon such trifling matters as the surrender of a principle, even a leading principle, and that its capabilities in the way of dirt-eating are unlimited. Looking back to the Presidential election of 1872, we are forced to admit that any inquiry as to the capacity of the party to turn summersaults a section at a time would be impertinent.

The Democratic candidate for Governor of Minnesota, Hon. D. L. Buell, has been caught at it, and his chances for gubernatorial honors have vanished into thin air. A Winona man charges and offers to prove that Buell has been guilty of the outrageous practice of loaning money at the usual rate of interest and taking mortgages to secure the payment. If that does not spoil him for a candidate the people of Minnesota must be set down for a lot of blonted aristocrats.

Mr. Alderman Fisher, of St. Paul, has been tried before his brethren of the council and found guilty of corruption in office, and his head is to go off. He ought to have had better sense than to be an alderman. If he wanted an office why did not he apply, in time, for the Red Cloud Indian agency, where he could have been protected in the enjoyment of his right to do business on business principles?

Storey, of the Chicago Times, noticing the fact that recently a baby was born at a camp-meeting at Monterey, California, remarks: "It is quite impossible for a slow-going inhabitant of the Atlantic slope to comprehend the amazing celerity with which things are accomplished on the Pacific." The incorrigible scamp!

General Sherman, in accepting an invitation to be present at the soldiers' reunion at Rockville, Indiana, says: "I prefer that you should make no display about me, but let me reach you easy. I can find my way there, probably, alone, and am sure that we can put in the time pleasantly enough."

The Evening Journal's paroxysm over the alleged discovery that some time, a quarter of a century ago, Henry Warren was in a Know-nothing lodge, still continues. We have been hoping to see evidences of a lucid interval, but the chances are against.

The Sacramento Record-Union says "the abolition of an elective judiciary is so strongly demanded in the interests of justice and the purity and efficacy of the bench, that it must be acquiesced in everywhere within a few years."

CITY.

REV. E. H. WARING.—In the Central Christian Advocate of September 1st, we find the following paragraph: "At the Oregon annual conference, Bishop Peck announced the transfer of Rev. E. H. Waring, of the Iowa conference, an old time friend and correspondent of the Central. It will be seen by the list of appointments in this issue that he is stationed at East Portland. We learn also from the Pacific Advocate that he was nominated for the editorship of that paper, and without doubt he will be elected to that position at the next general conference. We congratulate Rev. Mr. Waring on this nomination and the people of Oregon on his accession to that field of labor. He will fill the editorial chair to their satisfaction." Recently a note has been received from Bishop Peck, conveying the information that Rev. Mr. Waring cannot come to this coast at present.

ARRESTED FOR LARCENY.—While in an intoxicated condition, a man named Peter Hanson, entered the New York saloon on Wednesday night, and after absorbing an additional supply of the "ardent," went into the back portion of the saloon. Hanson took a seat and engaged in conversation with a fellow named Harold Harrison, who was sitting in the room. After leaving the saloon, Hanson missed his watch, which it is said was subsequently seen in the possession of Harrison. On complaint of Hanson, Harrison was arrested, and lodged in jail where he is at present. In addition to accusing him of stealing the watch, Hanson charges the defendant with having purloined, a short time ago, the sum of $35 from the complainant when he (Hanson) was in a similar condition. This morning the case will be called for a preliminary hearing.

HAND TORN OFF.—On Wednesday evening a man named Robert Newell, living near Centreville, Washington county, while engaged in working about a threshing machine, met with a shocking accident. Newell at the time was engaged in feeding the threshing machine when by some mishap he put his left hand a little too far. The hand was caught in the cylinder, and before it could be withdrawn was badly mangled. Only the thumb remained, all the fingers and most of the hand being torn to shreds. Medical aid was summoned, and the injuries carefully dressed, but at last accounts it was thought that amputation would be indispensable to save life and limb. It seems fortunate that Newell was not instantly drawn in and killed.

FALSE ALARM.—An alarm of fire was struck last evening, which proved to be false. Some of the workmen employed at the harness and saddlery establishment of Mr. J. B. Congle threw a quantity of old leather, scraps into a stove to burn them. The smoke filled the room, and was drifted through the open door into the streets. Fumes of burning leather pervaded the atmosphere, which, together with the sight of the thick smoke, gave the impression that the building was on fire. An alarm was immediately given, to which the department responded with alacrity. Reaching the supposed scene of the destroyer, it was then discovered that it was only smoke, and "nothing more."

ADJUSTMENT OF INSURANCE.—We understand that the losses sustained by the several persons on account of the late fire, have been adjusted as follows by the representative of the insurance companies interested: Ackerman & Co., of the dollar store, who were fully insured, receive $29,250 in coin; Mrs. Ach, who was the heaviest loser, receives the full amount of her insurance—$5,000—her loss being some $4,000 in excess of that amount; Dr. Wm. Gibson's loss was adjusted at $1,985; and that of J. O'Neil & Co. at $5,300. The total loss by the fire, excluding the buildings, was $45,735, of which amount the insurance companies pay $41,735.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.—We are in receipt of the annual announcement of the Medical Department of the Willamette University, for the coming year. From it we learn that the tenth regular course of lectures will commence with a public address on the evening of the 7th of December,

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.—We are in receipt of the annual announcement of the Medical Department of the Willamette University for the coming year. From it we learn that the tenth regular course of lectures will commence with a public address on the evening of the 7th of December, 1875. T. M. Gatch, A. B., A. M., is president of the institution. The following is the faculty of the department of medicine: T. M. Logan, John Boswell, H. Carpenter, Daniel Payton, C. H. Hall, D. M. Jones, J. W. McAfee, L. L. Rowland, O. D. Doane, O. P. S. Plummer, Rufus Mallory. Dr. H. Carpenter is dean of the faculty.

MINERAL WATER.—A large spring has recently been discovered by Dr. Blanchard, who lives about 20 miles distant from the city, near the foot of Chehalem mountain, the waters of which prove to possess mineral qualities of a valuable nature. The spring, which is said to be quite large, flows from a solid rock, and its waters are not vitiated by the decayed vegetable matter, which is often found in other springs of a similar character. A sample of the water has been forwarded to this city for analyzation.

REPAIRS NEEDED.—We are informed that the spokes on both the hind wheels of No. 4's steamer are quite loose and require repairs. The spokes of the hose-cart are also loose and need attention. The matter is now in the hands of the committee on fire and water, and it is to be hoped they will lose no time in causing the necessary repairs to be made. "A stitch in time saves nine," gentlemen.

GO EAST.—Rev. Mr. Parkhurst and Mr. Allen, who have been looking through Oregon for lands for a colony from Pennsylvania, left for the East overland last Monday, going south on the west side of the Willamet. They express themselves pleased with Oregon, and expect to return with the colony by the first of November, if their recommendations are adopted.

THE P. N. COOS.—From and after Sept. 17th, until further notice, the steamer E. N. Coos will leave her dock, foot of F street, every day (Sundays excepted) at 2.30 o'clock P. M. for Oregon City. Passengers for Dayton and intermediate points will take the cars here at 7.30 A. M., connecting at Canemah on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of each week.

BRIEF EXAMINED.—The case of William Downing, charged with threatening to kill Robert Mulligan, at East Portland, on Tuesday—the same case which was dismissed from police court for want of jurisdiction—was before examined before Justice Bybee yesterday afternoon. We are unable to state the result of the examination.

NARROWLY ESCAPED.—An express driver came near running over a little girl at the corner of Main and Fourth streets a few days ago. She was timely rescued by a gentleman who was passing at the moment. There are too many reckless drivers in Portland, and the only wonder is that more accidents do not occur.

POSTOFFICE REMOVAL.—Commencing tomorrow evening, after closing hour, the attaches of the postoffice will begin the transfer of the mail matter to the new office, on Fifth and Yamhill streets. We shall be able to speak more fully of the arrangements to follow the removal in to-morrow's issue.

INFORMATION DESIRED.—Any person knowing anything of the whereabouts of one James Coyle, who was employed on the line of the Northern Pacific Railroad in Washington Territory during the years 1871, 1872 and 1873, will confer a favor and be rewarded by sending his address to this office.

FOR TILLAMOOK.—To-day the little schooner Katie L. Heron, which lies near the foot of Morrison street, will commence to receive freight. She will have quick dispatch for Tillamook.

AMUSEMENTS.

A fair audience greeted the first entertainment under the auspices of the Catholic Social Union, last evening, at New Market Theater. The programme consisted of the drama entitled the "Orphan Girl," followed by song and dance by Frank McDermott, a tableau representing Toby Rosenthal's picture of "Elaine," and closing with the burlesque of "Bombastes Furioso." For the present we withhold criticism, preferring to give these taking part in the entertainment an opportunity to improve materially before giving an extended mention of the performance.

After having been an inmate of the asylum for eight months, under careful medical treatment, Mr. Virgil Newsome, of Marion county, was discharged from that institution a few days ago, sound and well in body and mind.

We are pleased to note that the remarks of a correspondent in relation to frequent and unnecessary whistling in coming to and from fires, published a few days ago in the OREGONIAN, were observed last evening at the alarm.

BALL AND BAT.

On Saturday at 1 o'clock the Atlantics will meet the Spartans, of Vancouver, on the grounds in East Portland, and play the second game of the series. The Atlantics will present a far different nine from the one in the first game. The following are the nine: Lakin L., c; Backenstos L., p; Duniway W., s s; Rhodes R., 1b; Lakin C., 2b; Knox J., 3b; Ballinger, l f; Northrup, c f; Giltner, r f.

Still they come, the crowds, to Fabre & Barnes', Central Market, for daily lunches.

His stock is worthy of inspection by all who desire a first class article. Be sure and call on him, and recollect the number.

Mr. JOS. KOHN has gone to San Francisco for the purpose of purchasing new goods for the fall and winter trade. At his new and elegant Establishment, First and Morrison streets, he makes a grand display of clothing, furnishing goods, etc. Mr. Kohn knows exactly what his customers want and he has very sensibly filled his shelves with such goods as are sure to meet with satisfaction and the prices too are figured down to suit the times. In a few days he will make new announcements.

BECK & WALDMAN have added largely to their stock of Clothing during the past week. The receipt of $.0 000 from San Francisco while it may relieve in individual cases is not of sufficient volume to give a perceptibly easier tone to the general financial market which is rather roundly supplied with available funds for the purposes of the regular export trade, which ought to be setting in quite actively by this time The capital with which this trade is conducted is generally drawn from the San Francisco markets through the banks here and shippers have hitherto found no difficulty either in securing short loans or importunt advances on their cargoes Now however the banks are quite wisely husbanding their resources until all possible effects of the recent crisis have passed away which event at the present rate is not many days in the future. While it is not thought for a moment that there is any danger of an actual scarcity such as would really lessen the volume of trade for the season it is the part of prudence to place around our interests all the safeguards that will tend to reduce the possibilities of danger in the future.

The 4th a commercial editor gives as a reason of the San Francisco failure the fact that a number of rich gentlemen in San Francisco were indebted to the bank of California, but owing to the coin famine could not pay up when called upon. They therefore lodged their securities with the British banks and received instead of coin sterling bills which they turned into the Bank of California in discharge of their debts to it. In other words when called upon to pay, instead of giving coin which was not to be had they gave sterling bills This difficulty in finding coin brings us to the immediate cause of the disaster The stock speculation broke down in January and prices went down with a continued sweep until the middle of February after that the market remained in abeyance for the reason that coin became exceedingly scarce under exports by rail to New York The coin shipments from San Francisco to New York during the seven months ending August 1st, this year were nearly $18 000 000 while the duties paid in California were nearly $5 000 000 The gold coin paid in for duty is not paid out again except as transfer Hence from January to August the loss of coin was $13 000 000 of which the Mint supplied $1 893 369 This continual drain made the scarcity of coin the greater each day in the six months, and as the close of it an active demand for coin set in to buy wheat in the Interior And there the Alta finds its reason for what it calls a " temporary pinch in the San Francisco market.

Why Wheat is Falling.

The United States wheat crop for the harvest of 1875 will be probably 2 > 000 000 to 2 > 000 000 bushels less than in 1874, when the crop was estimated by the Agricultural Department at 300 000 000 bushels. In the states producing about 100 000 000 bushels of winter wheat, the rains and floods may be estimated to have diminished the bread making capacity 25,000 000 bushels, which will not probably be made good by the increased product of spring wheat. The crop of California is also deficient. The probable out-turn of the crop of 1875 may be estimated at 265 000,000 bushels. Europe will require to import considerable wheat during the coming crop year 1875–6 but it has the largest portion of the year's supply in her own harvests. The United Kingdom has full average stocks of old wheat, with more than the usual amount on passage If the exporting countries press the wheat on Europe faster than is needed values will in consequence be depressed however much her wants may be during the succeeding twelve months.

Daily Review.

The general trade of our home market is steadily increasing but, still the bulk of the autumn business is evidently ahead of us. The fall stocks are now well in store, and buyers are occasionally dropping into the market from the interior towns but as a rule their purchases taken singly are small being mostly confined to selections adapted to this particular period in the season. For the regular winter trade purchases will not be made for some time yet and the heavier transactions in fall goods are put off until a greater proportion of the crops are sold In dry goods boots and shoes and agricultural implements but few changes are noted in our market In groceries there is some demand to fill up depleted stocks in staples Sugars are firm, with an upward tendency there being some call for Island with little or none in the market. The produce market has ruled uniformly steady during the week in all lines except wheat, a gradual sinking in values in the cereal being observed. Our quotations, found elsewhere, exhibit as near as possible the state of the market, though we learn that some sales have been made at something over the figures, and other a little lower The receipts of wheat are increasing and aside from that going into the City of Amoy and the Bernat here and the Dalhire and City of Hankow at Astoria, very considerable accumulations are noticed in our warehouses here. There is also said to be a large amount reaching the usual points of storage along the lines of transportation Aside from the breadstuffs market, we have no important changes in the produce market to note

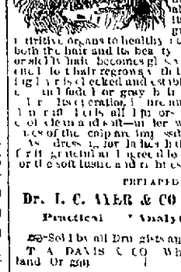
Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR

TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY & COLOR



Advancing years sicken it of its dispiriting imbecility and incapacity, and its weakening influences and utter ruin. It stops it falling out and checks it while it imparts new life, health and beauty to the hair. It tones and invigorates the scalp, and imparts to it healthy activity, on which conditions all the color and beauty of the hair depend. Thus a healthy scalp becomes supple and active, and the hair locks and curls in graceful ringlets. Locks prematurely gray, by the absorption of the fluid which should supply the coloring matter to the hair, resume their original color. Nothing can be more harmless than this preparation. Containing neither oil nor dye, it can soil nothing, but will prove a most agreeable dressing for the hair. Its operation is to restore to the hair the vital principle or element in which youthfulness consists, and which is indispensable to its existence. Thus it prevents the hair from falling off and decaying, and consequently preserves it to the most advanced age. As an elegant and economical dressing for the hair, it is unsurpassed. Containing no material that can injure the most delicate fibre, it is the best preparation ever offered to the public for the hair, as it will restore it to the most youthful appearance and vigor.
